DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's response filed on 07/01/2005 has been fully considered. Claims 1-20 are pending. (NOTE: Claims 13-20 are withdrawn from consideration as a non-elected invention).

Election/Restrictions

2. Applicant's election of Group I claims 1-12 in the reply filed on 07/01/2005 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Young et al. (US 4,861,644) in view of Schulz (US 6,825,279).

Young discloses a printed microporous material comprising a microporous material substrate containing an ultra high molecular polyethylene, and a printing ink on the microporous substrate (claim 1). The type of ink is disclosed in col. 12, lines 11-52. Young fails to disclose a layer comprising a film forming polymer between the substrate and the printing ink.

Schulz teaches a printable media comprising a substrate and an image receptive layer on the substrate (abstract), wherein the image receptive layer comprises a binder such as acrylic acid and styrene copolymer with acrylic acid (col. 7, line 24-40).

Young and Schulz are analogous art because they are from the same field of endeavor that is the printable media art. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to combine the image receptive layer of Schulz with the invention of Young in order to capture most of the ink colorant near a first major surface of the ink receptive layer while allowing most of a fluid vehicle of the ink to pass through the ink receptive layer (see col. 2, line 5).

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's argument is based on that the prior arts are directed to in-mold label composition. This argument is not persuasive for the following reason. The claimed invention is not directed to molded article, it is directed to a label that can be transferred to a molded object. Similarly, the combination of Young and Schulz is directed to a printed material having substantially identical materials as the claimed invention, wherein the printed material can be used as a label for molded object. For the above reason claims 1-12 stand rejected.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
